

Employer join now

WA Super default
Join now

OR

Join only

What's the difference?

When you offer your employee a choice of super fund, you must tell them the name of the fund you will pay their super to if they don't choose a fund. This is referred to as your employer-nominated super fund or default fund. If you nominate WA Super as your default fund we will automatically accept your employees as members of the Fund upon receipt of the first contribution from you, on your employees' behalf.

Employers with 20 or more employees who nominate WA Super as their default fund also have access to the ClickSuper clearing house for all their super contributions, at no cost.

You do not have to nominate WA Super as your default fund. If you simply want to contribute on behalf of one or more employees we just need some basic contact information.

If you would like to know more about having WA Super as your default fund, please contact us.

Downloaded on: 20/10/2017 from: <http://wasuper.com.au/employers/join-now/>

The information in this document is of a general nature only and does not take your personal investment objectives, financial situation and needs into account. You should assess whether any advice is appropriate to your individual investment objectives, financial situation and particular needs before making any investment decision. You should also consider seeking the assistance of a professional adviser.